

Comparing these two grasses, the orchardgrass stem bases (where carbohydrates are stored) are higher in the canopy – so they are more likely to be eaten.

grazing height

ground

Stored carbohydrates less likely to be eaten with meadow fescue.

Orchardgrass

Meadow fescue

Geoff Brink, USDA-ARS

